CHAPTER XIV.

HE little object in her hand. she stepped to the door, realizing now that she had left it slightly ajar, and thinking that perhaps she had heard a footfall. Yes, a man was passing far down the hall-walking deliberately. Could it have been he who but now passed at the door? To have attained such distance in haif a moment he must have eprung forward quickly-and then to have fallen deliberately into a slow walk ward quickly—and then to have fallen deliberately into a slow walk. What did that indicate? To Kitty it meant only that in Gretzhoffen walls had both eyes and ears.

Kitty swiftly conceived a plan which she fancied would afford greater safety for the cherished coin. There was at hand no machinery of ceremony, even had she been familiar with it. "The simplest way is the beat," said she to herself, her lips compressed.

She sat at her deak and inclosed the broken coin in a double sheet of paper. Upon one sheet she wrote these few words:

"Your Majesty, the young American woman so honored with this gift asks its safe keeping for a little time."

She added no signature, but on the envel po—the beat the Hotel Ritt could furnish her—she wrote a simple address: "For the King, at the Royal Palace, to be delivered at 12 midnight promptly."

In fault of a better messenger, and having no uniformed official to act as servitor, Kitty telephoned now to the Bureau of Telegraphs and asked for a reliable messenger. When presently he came she entrusted this missive to him with express instructions that he should leave it in the hands of some chosen servant of the King who would be sure to deliver it at the hour of some proper sure to deliver it at the hour of some proper sure to deliver it at the hour of some proper sure to deliver it at the hour of some proper sure to deliver it at the hour of some proper sure to deliver it at the hour of some proper sure to deliver it at the hour of some proper sure to deliver it at the hour of some proper sure to deliver it at the hour of some proper sure to deliver it at the hour of some proper sure to deliver it at the hour of some proper sure to deliver it at the hour of some proper sure to count Frederick himself and ask him for the other haif sure one proper sure to count Frederick himself and ask him for the other haif sure propersion girset to Count Frederick himself and ask him for the other haif sure propersion girset to Count Frederick himself and ask him for the other haif sure pro later: "I would rob a grave to get a story."

She stood for a time, her finger at ther lips, engaged in thought. "I am going direct to Count Frederick himself and ask him for the other half of the coin. He knows the King has given me his half—perhaps he will relent and let me match the king's half of the Gretshoffen coin.

With her to think was to act. A half hour later, ready robed for the street, she was in her car and on her way to the palace of Count Frederick. They knew her at the Count's palace now—or thought they knew her—and so no questions were asked when she applied at the door. Pending the coming of the Count, who was at home, as she learned, she-was shown to the reception room close to the entry door. As she sat there she heard footsteps approaching, heard voices in conversation. She knew that Count Frederick was there, but not alone. What should she do? For the time her doubt was resolved by the fact that the two speakers had passed into the room opening, just across the hall. She still could hear them talking.

Kitty listened shamelessly—for now them talking.

Kitty listened shamelessly—for now indeed all was fair in war for her in she heard Count Frederick address his companion as "My Lord Minister," and again as "Danislaw," so knew that it was none other than the Prime Minister of Gretshoffen with whom he was conversing.

ACCUSED OF STRIKING GIRL. Well-Dressed Prisoner Conceals

Identity in Court. well-dressed man of middle age. charged with striking Elizabeth Johnson, a show girl. on Broadway at Forty-ninth Street, last night, made a mystery of his identity in the Men's Night Court. He said he was John Doe, no house, and declined to change that statement under urging by Magistrate Appleton. He was held in $500 bail for examination to-night.

Detective McCoy saw the man and gelared that from a distance he witnessed the blow. When he came to the spot the show girl demanded her companion's arrest.

Miss Johnson told Magistrate Appleton she lived at No. 218 West Seventy-second Street. She did not tell the cause of the quarrel. The man denied striking her.

Save the Babies.

NFANT MORTALITY is something frightful. We can hardly realize that of all the children born in civilized countries, twentytwo per cent. or nearly ons-quarter, die before they reach one year; thirtyseven per cent., or more than one-third, before they are five, and one-half before they are fifteen!

We do not hesitate to say that a timely use of Castoria would save a majority of these precious lives. Neither do we hesitate to say that many of these infantile deaths are occasioned by the use of narcotic preparations. Drops, tinctures and soothing syrups sold for children's complaints contain more or less opium, or morphine. They are, in considerable quantities, deadly poisons. In any quantity they stupefy, retard circulation and lead to congestions, sickness, death. Castoria operates exactly the reverse, but you must see that it bears the signature of Chas. H. Fletcher. Castoria causes the blood to circulate properly, opens the pores of the skin and allays fever.

Letters from Prominent Physicians addressed to Chas. H. Fletcher.

Dr. A. F. Peeler, of St. Louis, Mo., says: "I have prescribed your Caster in many cases and have stways found it an efficient and speedy remedy." Dr. Frederick D. Regers, of Chicago, Ill., says: I have found Fletcher's Casteria very useful in the treatment of children's complaints.

Dr. William C. Bloomer, of Cleveland, Ohio, says: In my practice I am glad to recommend your Castoria, knowing it is perfectly harmless and always satisfactory.

Dr. E. Down, of Philadelphia, Pa., says: "I have prescribed your Castoria in my practice for many years with great satisfaction to myself and benefit to my patients."

Dr. Edward Parrish, of Brooklyn, N. Y., says: "I have used your Cactoria in my own household with good results, and have advised several. patients to use it for its mild lamative effect and freedom from harm." Dr. J. B. Elliott, of New York City, says: "Having during the past six years prescribed your Castoria for infantile stomach disorders, I most heartily commend its use. The formula contains nothing deleterious to the most delicate of children."

Dr. C. G. Sprague, of Omaba, Neb., says: "Your Castoria is an ideal medicine for children, and I frequently prescribe it. While I do not advecate the indiscriminate use of preprietary medicines, yet Castoria is an exception for conditions which arise in the care of children."

Dr. J. A. Parker, of Kansas City, Mo., says: "Your Castoria heids the esteem of the medical profession in a manner held by no other proprietary preparation. It is a sure and reliable medicine for infants and children. In fact, it is the universal household remedy for infantile allments." Dr. H. F. Merrill, of Augusta, Me., says: "Castoria is one of the very finest and most remarkable remedies for infants and children. In my opinion your Castoria has saved thousands from an early grave. I can furnish hundreds of testimonials from this locality as to its efficiency
